

Other TSMP Resources for Small Groups

Getting Started

Five studies for understanding the mission of The Salvation Army and the four TSMP goals. The first study unpacks our mission statement, asking 'what do you think the Salvation Army most needs to achieve more of our mission?' Our senior leaders asked themselves the same question which led to our four TSMP goals. From here, there are four studies introducing each of the goals.

Dynamic Discipleship

Seven studies for understanding dynamic discipleship:

- What is dynamic discipleship and that it starts with a choice
- Love for God – getting to know God (spiritual disciplines) and personal transformation (holiness)
- Love for Others – through serving within the church (gifts and unity), serving others (social justice) and sharing your faith
- Perseverance and the need to stay in the race.

Friendships that Count

A five session practical course to sharing your faith with friends. You'll gain a better understanding of your non-Christian friends, receive a practical model for deepening these relationships and prepare yourself so that you are ready to make the most of opportunities that present for you to share your love for Jesus with your friends.

Knowing God

Six studies for personal or group use, exploring how to get to know God through 'holy habits' (spiritual disciplines), covering:

- Your picture of God, and His picture of you
- Holy habits – inward, outward and those with a corporate focus
- Specific studies on the habits of prayer, Bible reading and listening.

Leading Small Groups

A training course for small group leaders, covering the purpose of small groups, practical tips for starting a group and running a meeting, and a focus on how to build authentic relationships.

Mission Matters (Soldiership Material)

While intended as soldiership material, there is no reason why a small group could not use Mission Matters to gain an understanding of The Salvation Army, our history, DNA, doctrines (beliefs) and distinctives

Note: due to the size of this booklet, it is not available for free printing – you order copies through Salvationist Resources (mailorder@nzf.salvationarmy.org).

Spiritual Partners

A handout explaining the benefits of having a spiritual partner, how to go about finding one, and practical tools for your first and subsequent meetings. Four pages, designed to print on a single A3 page, double-sided and folded.
